UNEMPLOYMENT MAY FOLLOW E.S.B. CUTS

Cinema Programmes Reduced

LARGE-SCALE unemployment probably will result from the new restrictions on the use of electricity, which come into operation to-day.

This was the consensus of opinion among prominent industrialists yesterday. Virtually seventy-five per cent. of the country's industries are dependent largely on electricity for motive power, so that it is fair to assume that the new "cuts" will be reflected in a sharp, and immediate, decline in production.

So long as the present crisis lasts, industrialists say, there appears to be no alternative method of retaining the services of employees. There is no question of allocating blame for the restricted output; it must be accepted with resignation by everyone.

COMMUNAL COOKING.—Dublin Corporation officials, it was learned yesterday, are perturbed by the worsening fuel position. It is understood that they are perfecting plans for the opening of the Corporation's chain of community kitchens "in the near future." With the present restrictions on the use of gas and electricity, communal cooking appears to be the only solution if existing fuel stocks are to be utilised economically next winter.

CINEMAS.—From to-day first-run cinemas in Dublin will show only one programme each week-day and two on Saturdays. Smaller, second-run, suburban cinemas, which already have confined programmes to one daily, will open on only a few days each week. Some of them may have to close down temporarily.

BUS SERVICES.—Civic Guards and D.U.T.C. officials were busy yesterday re-allocating stopping-places on routes where double-decker buses are to replace the trams. Stops are to be more widely spaced.

On the Dublin tram replacement routes fares will be charged on the usual scales, such as apply on other bus routes. Dalkey fares will be those which were charged on the bus services formerly operated to that place. Residents of Dun Laoghaire and Dalkey qualify for the issue of weekly tickets at reduced rates. Buses for Blackrock, Dun Laoghaire, and Dalkey will start from the present termini of Dun Laoghaire and Dalkey trams. Terenure and Dartry buses will start at the National Health Insurance Society Building, Upper O'Connell street. Double-decked buses on the Nos. 23, 48, 48a, and 72 routes will be replaced by single-deckers; but services will be more frequent. It cannot be said that the new services on the tram routes will be equal to the present services.

HILL OF HOWTH.—As and from next Monday, the present Hill of Howth tram services will be discontinued. A substitute bus service will be operated from Sutton Station to the Baily Post Office. There will be no service from the Baily to Howth.

HAIRDRESSING.—As from to-day, women's hairdressing saloons will rigorously "ration" permanent waves. Women who got a hair-set every fortnight will have to stretch the interval out to a month or six weeks, and they may be asked to wash their own hair before they go to the saloon for a "set." Unless the prices stabilisation order proposed by Mr. Lemass intervenes, hairdressers' prices may rise by roughly 25 per cent. The page-boy style probably will disappear; shorter hair styles will be more popular. Men's hairdressers will have to leave aside their electric hair-cutters, and go back to the slower, hand-operated cutters. Owners of electric razors must not use them.

SUMMER-TIME.—Many people to whom Irish Times reporters spoke yesterday suggested that the time had come for the Government to introduce double summer-time, thus effecting an enormous saving in lighting, especially in restaurants, hotels and places of refreshment. Last year, licensed houses closed at 10 p.m. Now they remain open until 10.30 p.m., with the result that more electric current is used.

CORK'S SPARE WATER APPEAL

The drastic curtailment in the electricity supply caused much anxious concern yesterday to Cork industrialists, managers of institutions and others whose duty it will be to devise methods of complying with the severe economy measures now necessary.

Cinemas and other entertainment centres in Cork are to introduce shorter programmes, with performances limited to one a day; even so, an occasional blank day appears inevitable. Cork hospitals will not be too severely hit, it was stated yesterday, because already drastic economies in consumption had been effected, but ward lighting, cooking and so forth will be further cut to ensure sufficient service for the X-rays and operating theatres.

Two appeals have been made by Cork municipal authorities for economy in the consumption of water. The difficulty, however, is not so much the shortage of water as the shortage of electricity. At its present low level, the River Lee can work only two of the five turbines, and to maintain the daily supply of four and one-third million gallons of water, electricity, as always in the summer months, has to be used extensively. The recent appeals for economy in the use of water followed an announcement that electricity consumption must be cut by an amount equivalent to half a million gallons of water per day, representing a cut of about twelve per cent. Since then the position has deteriorated and a fresh appeal is to be issued. Unless public co-operation is apparent a rationing scheme may have to be introduced.

Despite the fact that this country is experiencing the most unprecedented period of drought in over half a century, no fears have been entertained so far in connection with the position of the crops, an Irish Times reporter was informed yesterday. Were it not for the rainfall during the end of May, he was told, the future of the crops might now be critical.

Farmers throughout the country, however, would welcome a good rainfall, for many reasons.

Reports from different parts of the country indicate that rivers are abnormally low—in fact, in some places, the river beds have actually dried up. Never, for instance, has the Shannon been at such a low ebb. Within recent weeks it is quite a common thing to see children walking across the Shannon at Curragower Falls, where normally there is a heavy flow of water. Its tributaries — the Maigue and the Mulkaire—are also very low, while the Morning Star River is, to quote a local person, "a mere trickle."

In Cork and Galway, however, while the rivers are low they are not abnormally so. In view of the importance of the Shannon in connection with the electricity supply, it is of interest to note that the inflow of water at Ardnacrusha in March was less than one-fifth of the average; in April one-third, and in May it was again one-fifth.

As the Minister for Industry and Commerce and Supplies said in his broadcast, it would take weeks of rain to make up for the water storage already lost as a result of the prolonged drought.

BEAUTY in BLOOM

Beauty is a possession beyond price. Guard it carefully and enhance the natural bloom of your complexion with Ponds, the purest and most flattering of powders.

Allies Advance In France: Battle Raging In Caen

BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS ARE CONTINUING TO MAKE PROGRESS IN NORMANDY, STATED THE ALLIED MIDNIGHT COMMUNIQUE, AND REPEATED GERMAN ATTACKS AGAINST THE 6th AIRBORNE DIVISION HAVE BEEN HELD.

"The American bridgeheads are being gradually enlarged," the communiqué continued. "The enemy is fighting fiercely. His reserves have now been in action along the whole front."

Reports from German sources stated that heavy fighting was going on in Caen, and the German News Agency said the Allies had achieved a break-through in the area of Bayeux.

The Allied communiqué last night added:—

"With the safe and timely arrival of merchant convoys and improvement in the weather, unloading of supplies is proceeding at a satisfactory rate.

"The development of the Allied beach-heads continues.

"The supply by air of arms to our airborne troops early this morning was completely successful. Last night enemy E-boats, operating in four groups, entered the assault area and attempted to interfere with our lines of communication. A series of running fights ensued and the attacks were successfully beaten off.

"During the early hours of to-day E-boats were attacked off the French and Belgian coasts by coastal aircraft. One E-boat was sunk and three others sunk or severely damaged.

"Our air assault in support of the land and naval forces against a wide variety of tactical targets has continued uninterruptedly and in very great strength. The enemy air effort is as yet on a limited scale, but some opposition from flak has been encountered.

"Ceaseless patrols were maintained over the immediate battle positions by our fighters and fighter-bombers. Other fighters covered shipping against air and sea attacks. Behind the combat zone other fighter-bombers ranged over the country in a deep belt many miles south and south-east of the battle area, attacking armoured vehicles, motor transport and troop concentrations.

"Rocket-firing planes attacked a tank concentration west of Caen."

According to the German radio, violent fighting is raging in Caen, to which, the radio added, the Allies advanced with tanks, mounted infantry and mobile troops. Reports from other German sources said that Allied crack troops were advancing down the Bayeux-Caen road, while other forces were marching on Caen from the Ouistreham direction.

"General Eisenhower has hurled fresh forces into the battle for Caen," Paris radio stated. "One Allied division after another is being landed on the invasion beaches. Twenty Allied divisions have so far set foot on French soil. The violence of the fighting is hourly being intensified, but officers at Rundstedt's Headquarters stated that German counter measures had not really begun."

Ten German Divisions

It was disclosed to war correspondents at Allied Headquarters after the midnight communiqué was issued that German troops are concentrated twelve miles south of the assault area.

Correspondents were given one of the completest pictures of the general invasion position yet afforded by H.Q. spokesmen. It was stated that as many as ten different German divisions had been identified as holding positions along the front. Taking an average of 10,000 to a division, the total German strength might be put at 100,000.

"Focal points" of the battle were stated to be around Caen, ten miles inland—which had been "bombarded into a shambles" from the air and sea—and on the lateral road running east from St. Mere Eglise.

The Allied line in the Caen-Bayeux region was being firmly held.

The fighting around Caen was described as very stiff, and the Canadians were in action in this sector. North-west of the town, in the open country, the Allies were "not getting on much," but north-east of the town the Allied flank was "firm."

Very heavy fighting was taking place inland, it was said, and Caen was described as "a very tough nut." Although the Americans were behind in their programme, the Allies now held a continuous line along the coast, and there seemed no doubt of their ability to maintain the flow of shipping.

The weather was still "unkind" to Allied operations, and had resulted in 24 hours' delay in the unloading programme, but these were being overhauled.

The German reserves in action, it was stated, were local. None had been successful.

The American forces were reported to be "on the right, facing the enemy."

Casualties in men and craft among the airborne units had been below an optimistic estimate.

FURIOUS ATTACKS EXPECTED

STATEMENTS on the first 54 hours of the invasion were made yesterday by General Eisenhower, General Montgomery and Mr. Henry L. Stimson, United States Secretary for War.

EISENHOWER

"My complete confidence in the ability of the Allied armies, navies and air forces to do all they are asked to do has been completely justified," said General Eisenhower.

"In the early landing operations, which are always largely naval, the two Allied navies—together with elements of naval units of the United Nations—under Admiral Ramsay, have excelled in the high standard of their planning and their execution any prior venture in which I have seen them engaged.

"General Montgomery is in immediate and direct charge of all the assault ground forces. Under him all the troops are performing magnificently."

STIMSON

Mr. Henry L. Stimson United States Secretary of War, said:

"We must look for the full fury of savage counter-attacks at an early moment, even though we have gained footholds on the Continent.

"It would be folly to believe that the period of counter-attack will be short. Conditions will be changing from day to day, and it will be to our own good to avoid excesses of optimism or pessimism."

President Roosevelt conferred with Mr. Stimson for nearly 90 minutes at the White House yesterday.

General Montgomery, who spent his first day in the beach-head area going round the anchorages and hearing reports from senior officers, also was pleased with the progress. "Everything is going excellently," he told reporters.—(Reuter and P.A.)

Heavy Armour Locked In "Murderous" Battle

A GERMAN war reporter on the Caen front said in a dispatch broadcast last night:—

"The enemy has succeeded in knocking out our coastal Atlantic Wall defences on a rather broad front. The German defenders fought like lions, strong-point garrisons holding out literally to the last man, but the incessant hail of bombs and naval shells, the attacks by endless swarms of low-flying battle-planes, and the large airborne landings—whole divisions in a matter of hours—were irresistible.

"Last night north of Caen I watched the incessant descent of fresh enemy airborne troops only 1,000 yards from our positions. Whole divisions have come down this way.

HEAP OF RUINS

"Caen itself is a heap of ruins—an empty shell, from which all inhabitants fled when the terrific enemy bombardment began.

"At this moment famous elite German panzer formations, Grenadiers and Waffen S.S. units are racing to battle. Reinforcements are arriving every hour.

"The enemy is throwing in his men and material with utter ruthlessness, comparable only with the Russian methods."

Lutz Koch, another German war correspondent, in a despatch broadcast last night, said:

"Super-heavy British tanks have been landed north of Caen, together with other armour, including amphibious tanks. These forces are now locked in a murderous battle with panzer reserves brought up to the front."

The German defences on the Normandy coast "were eliminated" to a certain depth, with the result that the Allies were able to land their heavy equipment, said a German radio reporter.

German artillery and anti-tank guns were "steamrollered" by wave after wave of Allied bombers until they could resist no longer.

The Allies, he said, were continuously landing more and more men and material from the sea, and also bringing in fresh airborne forces.

DECIDED ISSUE

The coastal defences at first held, said the reporter, but the "well-aimed" massed landings from the air behind the German lines eventually decided the issue and enabled the Allies to establish their bridgeheads.

"The British are landing regardless of losses in men and material. Last night a new large-scale airborne landing took place north of Caen, and more forces were also landed on the western part of the Normandy peninsula. Thus the enemy was able to widen his invasion base on the coast and establish himself in certain depth near Caen."

The German Command had, he added, reckoned with such a development, and for the first time heavy German tanks were sent against the invaders. These were able to prevent the "break in" becoming a "break through." "Other picked divisions are at this moment on the march to take part in the battle, whose intensity is growing every hour."—(Reuter and A.P.)

The P.A. learns that in the land fighting in Normandy elements of the 21st Panzer Division have been identified among the German troops.

German Reports Of Fighting

THE German News Agency said last night that two new airborne divisions were landed in the Bayeux area yesterday afternoon. The beach-head, it added, was now 36 miles wide, and German troops had been taken back north of Bayeux.

The Agency said:—"Far-reaching changes have taken place in the course of the day. Montgomery has decided considerably to reinforce his bridgehead west of the Orne mouth by hastily pumping in air and seaborne forces and material.

"At mid-day to-day hundreds of gliders landed two fresh divisions in the area north, north-east, and north-west of Bayeux.

"British tanks penetrated into and beyond Bayeux in a south-westerly direction this morning. The German garrison, numerically inferior to the enemy, withdrew from the town.

WITHDRAWAL

"East of Bayeux bitter engagements are in progress in the sector of the Seulles River. The American airborne troops north of Carentan have been considerably reinforced by more airborne reserves. As a result the German offensive troops on the northern and southern fronts of the American bridgehead have, for the time being, gone over to the defensive. The most advanced German spearheads have been taken back.

"All American attempts to rip open the German pincer barrier have been repulsed with bloody losses to the enemy.

"The object of the enemy thrust from Bayeux is to build up, in conjunction with the Americans in the Carentan area, a front across the Cherbourg peninsula running from the Vire estuary to the area of Coutances, or even as far as Avranches."

BREAKTHROUGH

In an earlier message the Agency said: "British troops have broken through the German line at Bayeux, and are advancing south-west. German counter-measures are about to start. British attempts to enlarge their beach-head at Port-en-Besin (north-west of Bayeux) all failed.

"Hundreds of transport planes and gliders are landing further Allied reinforcements at short intervals. In the centre of these airborne landings was Granville and Coutances. The British tank formations here are trying to reach the Vire sector and link up with the American paratroops who landed at the Vire mouth and between Carentan and St. Mere Eglise.

"A German armoured reconnaissance column late last night advanced north-west from Caen, and penetrated deep into the British positions west of the Orne mouth. This group reached the vicinity of Courseulles, but was attacked by British assault guns and returned to its starting point.

"Montgomery has so far thrown into battle twelve divisions. Reinforcements in men and equipment are steadily arriving. His armour has also been reinforced in the past 36 hours."

The German News Agency named prisoners said to have been captured in the area of Bolbec, 18 miles east of Le Havre. This is the first mention of Allied troops being in this area.

Rennes Radio said:—"A new Allied landing attempt at Harfleur was repulsed yesterday. Staff officers at von Runstedt's H.Q. do not expect further Allied landings before Cherbourg has been captured. General Montgomery's army group is reported to consist of 30 divisions. Strategic German reserves, including crack tank units, have been hurled into the battle for St. Mere Eglise."

Vice-Admiral Luetzow, Berlin radio naval spokesman, said last night:—

"Far-reaching Allied successes in the first phase of the invasion, both on a broad and deep front, were inevitable. The German commanders in the west had reckoned with such initial successes, in view of the enemy's overwhelming superiority in men and material."

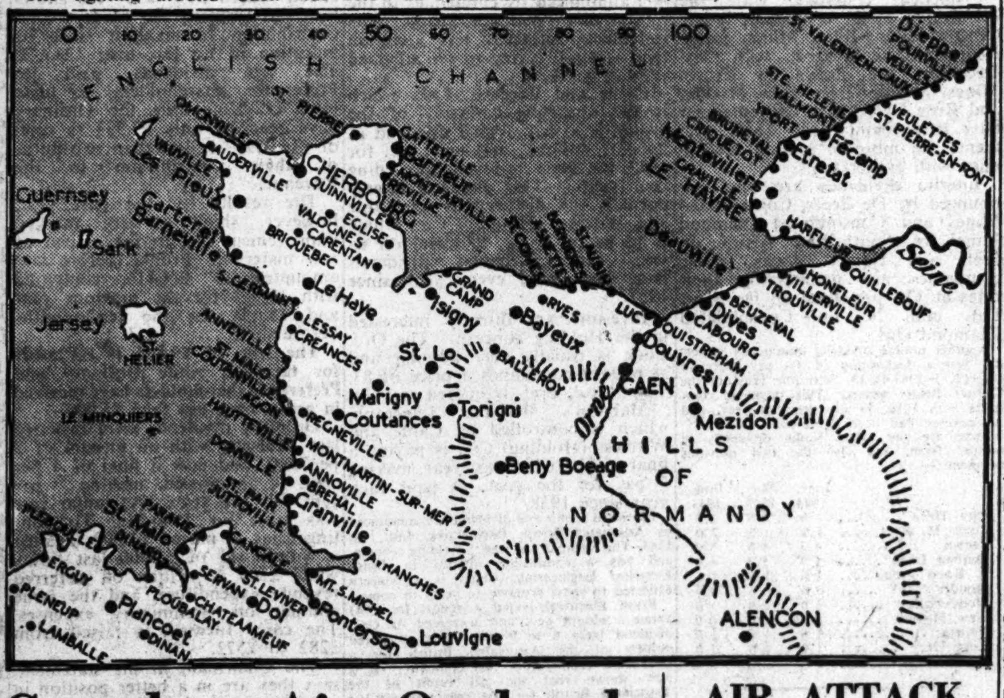
Paquis, the Paris radio commentator, said that powerful Allied air-borne formations were dropped last evening over Falaise and Argentan, far behind the fighting line. This is the second airborne landing reported by the Axis in this area, 40 miles from the coast.

TENTH OF FORCES

Hallensleben, of the German News Agency, wrote: "Marshal Rundstedt's forces are so far facing only one-tenth of the armies at Eisenhower's disposal. Rundstedt has given orders that German air and naval forces are to maintain constant patrol over the Bay of Biscay and the Channel to prevent surprise Allied landings."

The German radio said that Lisieux, an old Normandy town east of Caen, had been almost completely destroyed by bombing.—(Reuter and A.P.)

Marshal von Rundstedt gave the following message to the armies, of which he is Supreme Commander: "The first shock of the battle has been borne by the Atlantic Wall fortifications. There can be no question of giving way. There will be no withdrawals. The Atlantic Wall will be defended to the last man."—(Reuter.)



Ceaseless Air Onslaught Of Unprecedented Fury

THE onslaught from the air in support of the Allied ground forces, locked in fierce battle in Normandy, swept to an unprecedented peak of fury yesterday.

Nearly 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators, screened by up to 500 Mustangs, Lightnings and Thunderbolts, dropped thousands of tons of bombs early yesterday on German dromes, bridges, rail junctions and yards on a great arc 100 to 150 miles south of the beaches.

In the first six hours of daylight powerful Ninth Air Force fighter-bomber fleets roared out on ten separate big attacks. Marauders launched a dawn assault on Caen, and left the city of 60,000 blazing. More than 260 Marauders and Havocs later attacked scattered targets in the German rear. Hundreds of fighters were also out in a never-ending stream.

The fighters heavily straffed ground installations and transport, including a column of armoured cars, tanks, locomotives, freight, oil and ammunition railway waggons, railyards and junctions, factories, airborne hangars, gun emplacements, oil tanks, canal locks and other items of importance.

These massive day attacks followed another night of bombing by up to 800 heavy R.A.F. bombers. They hit a secret German refuelling hideaway in woods about 12 miles inland from the beaches, and four important junctions on the Paris "round about" rail system—Acheres, Versailles, Massy-Palaiseau and Nuvisy.

Battles were fought with scores of German fighters, five, at least, of which were destroyed. Twenty-nine Allied aircraft are missing.

For the 72 hours up to midnight last night, the Allied Air Forces in Britain maintained a scale of about 10,000 sorties every 24 hours—an effort far surpassing anything ever known in air warfare.

Day and night assaults have merged into one long succession of ceaseless attacks.

The fierce opposition met by night bombers over France is typical of the increased resistance offered by the Luftwaffe in the last 48 hours.

While Spitfire squadrons again gave continuous air cover to the land forces, Mustangs and Typhoons bombed roads behind the fighting area. German tanks, lorries and troop concentrations were attacked.

Night fighters of Air Defence of Great Britain over Continental bases shot down five German aircraft, as well as another three destroyed in the Channel area near Cherbourg.

AIR ATTACK ON E-BOATS

THROUGHOUT Wednesday night and during the early hours of yesterday, aircraft of R.A.F. Coastal Command attacked strong forces of German E-boats and a number of merchant vessels off the French coast, says the British Air Ministry News Service.

At least three E-boats were seriously damaged and believed sunk, and a fourth was probably destroyed. One merchant vessel was left smoking. The attacking aircraft suffered no damage.

Ball-bearings Agreement — The American and Swedish negotiators have reached agreement on certain recommendations affecting the shipment of ball-bearings to Germany, it is authoritatively learned in Stockholm.—(A.P.)

Fifth Army Advances 50 Miles

AN Associated Press cable last night stated that the Fifth Army is now 50 miles beyond Rome.

Civita Castellana, which is 30 miles north of Rome, was captured by reconnaissance units as the Fifth Army armoured forces continue to drive the Germans rapidly northwards.

Civita Castellana controls a subsidiary road network, and is on the electric railway from Florence to Rome.

Other advance elements are pushing on from Bracciano.

Resistance, both at Civita Vecchia and Bracciano, was slight. The push up Highway 3 resulted in the capture yesterday of Marshal Kesselring's former headquarters, an elaborate tunnelled underground stronghold, three miles south-east of Civita Castellana.

All the bridges at Civita Castellana are reported to have been demolished, and the road to Narni, twelve miles further on, has been pitted with craters in a score of places.

West of Civita Castellana reconnaissance groups are meeting with opposition. Forty Wehrmacht formations are represented among the prisoners taken in the withdrawal from Rome and beyond.

The Eighth Army, continuing their drive north on the eastern bank of the Tiber, are now pushing through the mountains north of Subiaco. They have captured Sant Angelo, Romano, Monterotondo and Mentana, about 11 miles north-east of Rome, and Guidonia, the site of one of Rome's main airfields.

Resistance round Subiaco was very stubborn before the town fell together with Vallepietra, a few miles to the east, and Ienne. A sharp battle was fought for the town, Allied forces using tanks against the rearguards.

All the bridges across the Tiber from Rome up to Orte, 40 miles north, have been demolished, according to air reconnaissance reports. In the Tiber valley Sherman tanks destroyed two Mark IVs and eleven Panthers. After clearing the Ernici Mountains, north of Alatri, Eighth Army units have now entered the Simbruini range, which skirts the Liri valley to the west up to Highway 5. Although hampered by demolitions, they are steadily pushing forward to cut the highway.

The German retreat routes are still being very heavily bombed. Yesterday 169 vehicles were destroyed and 215 damaged on the jammed routes to the north and near the battle zone. R.A.F. Wellingtons yesterday dropped 4,000-lb. bombs on Orvieto, which is 60 miles north-west of Rome on the main Rome-Florence railway.

American Airmen Interned — An American plane, coming from the direction of the Black Sea, made a forced landing near Istanbul, stated Angara radio yesterday. The crew of six was interned.

RUSSIANS RENEW OFFENSIVE

SOVIET troops have launched an offensive on a broad front north of Jassy. Giving this news last night, the German commentator, Colonel von Hammer, stated that the Russians had gained some kilometres on the left flank and in the centre, but claimed that this ground was mostly recaptured in counter-attacks.

The reported Red Army attacks, not mentioned yet from Moscow, follow upon a week of heavy fighting in the Jassy sector.

A few hours before the German report, Reuter cabled from Moscow that all the indications now are that the Red Army is likely to throw its weight into a full-scale offensive at any time to complement the Allied invasion on the western front.

Another German commentator said last night: — "Stalin is regrouping his forces on a large scale before he can unleash his planned offensive in the south to back up the Allied western invasion. All indications are that one of these offensives will be launched south of the Pripet Marshes in the direction of Lvov. Large-scale military traffic is passing through the railway junctions of Proskurov and Zhmerinka, which are being repeatedly bombed by the Luftwaffe."

The Soviet communiqué said that there were no material changes at the front.

To-day's Dail Opening

By Our Political Correspondent.

The order paper for to-day's opening meeting of the twelfth Dail contains no surprises.

When the Clerk of the Dail (Mr. Gearoid McGann) reads the names of the deputies returned at the general election and the proclamation summoning the Dail, a motion will be made for the re-election of Mr. Frank Fahy as Speaker. Mr. Fahy will then take the chair. The motion for the re-election of Mr. de Valera as Taoiseach will be made. It is not thought that any alternative name for the office will be put before the House, but it is not unlikely that a division will be challenged. The result, however, is a foregone conclusion.

The House will then be adjourned in order to enable Mr. de Valera to visit the President, report his election and receive the Presidential appointment. He will then return to the Dail and submit the names of his Ministers, which will have to be approved by the House.

Fianna Fail, Fine Gael and Labour held party meetings at Leinster House last night. Mr. de Valera and all the Ministers were present at the Fianna Fail meeting, but no information was disclosed as to the matters discussed. Fine Gael elected General R. Mulcahy as Leader, Dr. T. F. O'Higgins as Deputy Leader, Mr. P. S. Doyle as Whip and Mr. G. Bennett as Deputy Whip.

The Labour Party meeting decided not to oppose the motion which will be moved in the Dail to-day to re-elect Mr. de Valera to the office of Taoiseach. Mr. W. Norton was re-elected Leader of the party in the Dail. Mr. W. Davin was re-elected Deputy Leader, and Mr. Tadgh Murphy will continue as Whip.

Mr. Churchill's Warning

Mr. Churchill, after replying to questions put to him in the British House of Commons yesterday, said: "May I, for the convenience of the House, mention that I do not propose to make any statement about the battles this morning, and I shall not do so unless something exceptional turns up. As a matter of fact, I think all the points which had occurred to me are very fully met in the excellent reports furnished by our able and upright Press.

"I would say that if this is the last time I speak to the House before the week-end, I earnestly hope that when members go to their constituencies they will not only maintain moral as far as that is necessary, but also give strong warnings against over-optimism and against the idea that these things are going to be settled in a rush. Remember, although great dangers lie behind, enormous exertions lie before us."

Mr. Granville (Ind.) asked: "Will he give an assurance that the reason he is not going to make a statement in the immediate future is not that he is going to make a visit to the coast of France."

There was no further reply.

British Advance On Imphal Road

THE Japanese are still withdrawing to the south-east of the British base at Kohima, states a Reuter cable. British and Indian troops have been unable to make general contact with them, and there is no indication where the Japanese will halt.

A British force by-passed Aradura Spur, and has advanced five miles along the main Imphal Road. The struggle for the Aradura Spur itself, from which the Japanese dominated the Dimapur-Imphal Road, is entering its last phase.

The Japanese still hold about 70 miles of the Manipur Road, from 14 miles north of Imphal to 5 miles south of Kohima.

There are indications that they are regrouping north-east of Imphal. General Stilwell's forces are still pushing their way into Myitkyina, clearing up several strongholds against the strongest resistance and counter-attacks. The Allied ring is slowly tightening around Kamaing, a key town 45 miles north-west of Myitkyina.

Chinese forces, driving west to re-open the vital lifeline for supplies with the Allies in Burma, have captured a town about six miles north-west of Lungling. Other Chinese troops are at points fifteen miles north-east and nine miles south of Lungling. Japanese troops have been surrounded in this area, according to a Reuter message from Chungking.

The Royal Australian Air Force had its biggest success since Milne Bay, when 30 Zeros attacked a Kittyhawk formation over Biak Island. Eight Zeros were shot down, and another disappeared in flames. The R.A.F. lost one plane, but the pilot was picked up by an American destroyer.—(Reuter.)

Allies Use New Weapons

ALLIED airborne troops are using a quick-action explosive, shaped like a length of rope. To demolish a bridge it is quickly wound round a pillar and ignited. In a few moments there is an explosion, and the pillar is shattered.

The Allies are also using a vessel fitted entirely with rockets, which puts an amazing weight of explosive on the beaches, and has very high moral effect, apart from its remarkable powers of "drenching" the beaches. It was developed as a result of experience gained at Dieppe.

Youth Shot in Belfast

John McNally, 18 years, Balkan street, Belfast, received a neck wound when a shot was fired at the corner of Cape street, Belfast, last night. McNally was found on the footpath with blood flowing from the wound, and he was taken to hospital.

Bombs on East Anglia

A small number of German aircraft flew over parts of East Anglia on Wednesday night, says a British communiqué. Bombs caused slight damage, but no casualties. Three of the raiders were destroyed.

puts years on you—
restore its natural colour this easy way

Why be aged by greying hair? Look young and fresh again by restoring the full natural colour to your hair with this simple, safe and inexpensive treatment. Make up the following mixture. To a bare half pint of water add one ounce of Bay Rum. Then mix in contents one small box Orlex Compound. Finally add a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any chemist can supply those ingredients or make up the mixture. Applied twice weekly, this non-greasy, non-sticky, non-rub mixture soon gives your hair the glow of youthful colour and it doesn't colour the scalp. Get rid of grey hair. Start to-day—the Orlex way. CIVIL SERVICE "ANNUAL"

A high-class entry has been received for the Civil Service sports, in aid of the Red Cross, at Shamrock Rovers' ground, Milltown, to-morrow (3.0). The tit-bit of the programme is a two miles invitation race, in which T. Walsh, Caherline, Pallasgreen, may set up new figures for the distance. He was credited with 4 mins. 12 secs. when winning a mile championship at a provincial meeting two years ago, and is quite at home over the longer distance. This is his first appearance at a Dublin sports meeting.

There are over a score entered for the sprints, but chief interest is likely to centre in the meeting of the youths' champion, J. Reardon (Donore), and senior champion, J. Conway (Civil Service), in the 220 yards handicap.

Bright Batting a Paying Policy

WHATEVER may be their limitations, Dublin University have infused some welcome brightness into the Leinster Senior Cricket League this season by their policy of going for the runs instead of playing for a tame draw, and their match with Leinster at College Park to-morrow gives promise of being the best of the four Senior League ties.

Leinster appear the more likely to win; their batting, despite its lapse against Clontarf, has more power and consistency, and their weakness in attack is a fault which also affects Trinity. Should Trinity have second knock against a not impossible total, however, they may snatch victory by the methods which they have deservedly found so successful up to the present.

Pembroke will be without M. B. Williams against Merrion at Sydney Parade—a loss they will feel both in batting and bowling; but although they depend for their runs mostly on a few key men, they should account for Merrion, who have yet to win a League match.

Y.M.C.A. suffer from a lack of aggression in batting, and are not likely to take full points from Phœnix at Phœnix Park; and Clontarf, as yet unbeaten in the League, should have little difficulty in defeating Civil Service on the latter's ground.

Phœnix—D. R. Pigot, P. J. Quinn, G. J. Quinn, F. M. Quinn, B. T. Quinn, K. Quinn, J. V. Luce, J. M. Hanrahan, J. N. Brophy, B. V. Fox, A. N. Other.

Merrion v. Pembroke—C. Mara (capt.), J. Burke, T. Burke, S. Curley, J. D'Arcy, W. L. C. Lindsay, C. J. Little, J. D. O'Connor, R. H. Shortt, P. Waldron, P. Warren.

Leinster, Clontarf, Y.M.C.A. and Pembroke teams appeared in yesterday's issue.

TIME SAVED CLONTARF

Honours of the draw between Leinster Schools and Clontarf, at Castle avenue yesterday, went to the schools, who were well on the road to victory at close of play, with six Clontarf wickets down for 81, against their total of 127 for 4 (declared).

V. Edgill and D. Campbell gave the schools a good send-off with a first wicket stand of 88, of which Edgill had 50 (five 4s), and they declared at 127.

HARD HITTERS FILL BILL

Butcher Howell.

SIX ten-round fights will be the bill for Mr. Gerald Egan's professional boxing tournament at Dalymount Park this day week, chief interest figuring in the heavy-weight bout between Chris Cole (Mullingar) and Butcher Howell (Cork). On performances, a success would appear to work out well in Cole's favour, despite his unconvincing display against O'Sullivan last August, for Howell's defeat by Jack Doyle was not good form, and he had previously been well beaten by Alex. Woods of Randalstown.

However, the terrific hammering which Cole underwent at the hands of O'Sullivan may have shaken his confidence somewhat, and at any rate, the records of the Irish heavy-weight brigade are not so consistent that another unexpected result could be regarded as impossible. However, if the pair serve up such hard-hitting fare as they did when they met on previous occasions, the fans will be well satisfied.

The other heavy-weight contest brings together Jim Cully (Tipperary) and Joe O'Neill (Belfast). Cully may or may not have improved at the game since he was beaten by Cole two years ago, and, as little is known of O'Neill's ability, this contest must remain something of an unknown quantity.

TWO "ELIMINATORS"

Pat Mulcahy will fight Spike McCormack, and Jimmy Ingle has been matched with Sean Clancy, both bouts being recognised by the Eire B.B.C. as eliminators for the championship of Ireland.

The first of these pairings may well prove the best fight on the programme. Mulcahy never lacks anything in fitness, and McCormack can hit hard, as he showed when beating Ingle in February.

Ingle and Clancy are both hard-hitters, too, and should provide plenty of entertainment.

Eddie Downey, the Dublin middle-weight, has been matched with Jack Lenihan, of Cork; and Joe Collins, well-known for his clever footwork and perfect straight left, will box Siki O'Neill in the feathers.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR HIS EXCELLENCY

Feature of the betting on the Derby at the Victoria Club call-over yesterday was the demand for His Excellency, who ran fourth in the 2,000 Guineas. He was backed to win £12,000 at 16/1. The price was still asked for, but the bookmakers final offer was 15 to 1.

Lord Rosebery's outsider, Ocean Swell, was supported at 30 to 1 to win £10,000. Growing Confidence was backed to win £2,500, Garden Path £4,000, and Wood Cot £6,000.

6/1 agst. Growing Confidence, 13/2 Tehran, 7/1 Garden Path, 10/1 Mustang, 15/1 His Excellency, 15/1 Fair Glint, 100/6 High Profit, 20/1 Orestes.

28/1 Happy Landing, 30/1 Ocean Swell, 33/1 Abbot's Fell, 50/1 Wood Cot, 50/1 Rameses, 50/1 Salver, 50/1 Vigorous, 66/1 Hyder Ali.

Next call-over on Thursday.

Victory Goes to Annetta in "Guineas" Thrill

STABLE companions in Mr. Peter Burrell's Annetta and Mrs. J. McEnery's Coup de Grace, both trained by H. M. Hartigan, had the finish of the Irish One Thousand Guineas to themselves at the Curragh yesterday, the pair finishing a couple of lengths in front of High Spirits.

In a very truly run race, in which there were no "hard luck" stories, the favourite, Fairdue, showed up prominently for about half way, but after that Lord Talbot de Malahide's filly was done with, and Coup de Grace went on with a slight lead of Annetta and Neandria. Coup de Grace looked like winning as they approached the number board, when Canty came along with a beautifully-timed effort to get Annetta home by a neck.

Apart from the Guineas it was not a very exciting day's racing, though the Beginners' Stakes produced a very close finish, in which the favourite, Sir Thomas Dixon's Redbay, who did not appear to relish the going, failed by a short head to catch Lady Juliet. The winner is trained by Bob Fetherston for Mrs. D. McCalmont, whose first success it was.

IRISH RACING LEADERS

THE position of honour as head of the winning owners is not an unusual one for Mr. Joe McGrath, and up to June 2nd his horses had won £2,150, over £250 more than his nearest rival, Mr. J. V. Rank.

Mr. McGrath's best money spinner so far has been his two-year-old Panorama colt, Bazooka, whose success in the "Patriotics" at Baldoyle and a race at the Curragh in May earned him £443. Next comes Pongo, who with three hurdle races to his credit, has garnered £370, while the total earnings of Brownstown, the Rank Cup winner, amount to £333.

Prince Regent, whose success in the Baldoyle 'Chase earned him £740; Airds Moss, two hurdle races and a 'chase (£479), and his promising young steeplechaser, Red Branch (£367), are chiefly responsible for Mr. Rank's total of £1,896.

Mr. M. Owens owes third place to one horse, Aughamore, whose success, within a period of five days, in the Irish Lincolnshire and the Phœnix Handicap won him £1,107.

LEADING TRAINER

T. W. Dreaper tops the list of winning trainers with twelve races and £2,048. Chief money-spinners have been Mr. Rank's horses, Prince Regent and Red Branch, while Kai Lung (£223) and My Richard (£222) have also added to the total. R. Fetherstonhaugh, with eleven races and £1,460, comes next on the list; while M. C. Collins, with successes on the flat exclusively, has saddled the winners of eight races value £1,226.

One of the most popular—and successful—of our pilots is Aubrey Brabazon, and he has won 17 races—all over the obstacles. M. Wing, on the other hand, has won 12 races on the flat.

The successes of Aughamore, already mentioned, are mainly responsible for the position of Rolling Rock as head of the winning sires, his only other winner being Coon Rock. Cottage, second on the list, owes his position to Lovely Cottage, whose success in the Hunters' Grand National at Mallow in April and the Conyngham Cup at Punchestown earned her £849 10/-, augmented by Hamlet and Slieve Dub, who won £167 10/- and £148, respectively. Details:—

Owners—Mr. Jos. McGrath, £2,150; Mr. J. V. Rank, £1,896; Mr. M. Owens, £1,107; Mr. H. S. Gill, £1,001.

DOUBLE FOR W. F. REID

W. F. Reid scored a double in championship events at Dublin University lawn tennis "at home" in College Park yesterday, beating F. S. Lyons in the singles and being associated with N. D. Brown in a victory against D. A. Good and R. E. Fenelon in the doubles.

Men's Singles (Championship)—W. F. Reid beat F. S. Lyons—6-1, 8-6, 6-3. Junior Singles (Championship)—M. S. Strong beat W. G. Keane—6-2, 3-6, 6-4. Doubles (Championship)—W. F. Reid and N. D. Brown beat D. A. Good and R. E. Fenelon—6-3, 6-2.

Women's Singles (Championship)—Miss M. Brennan beat Miss S. Ronaldson—6-3, 4-6, 5-2 (retired). Singles (Handicap)—Miss G. O'Hegarty beat Miss C. Crawford—6-3, 6-1. Doubles (Championship)—Misses M. Brennan and N. Plunkett-Dillon w.o., Misses S. Ronaldson and V. Henning scr. Doubles (Handicap)—Misses J. Hobson and R. Perrot beat Misses K. Hill and M. Rose—6-2, 6-3.

Shahpoor and other horses trained by J. Lawson at Manton will not fulfil their engagements at Ascot to-morrow. Unsuitable conditions have caused training difficulties.

SURPRISES IN MILLTOWN FOURSOMES

By J. P. ROONEY

THE third round of the Irish Open Mixed Foursomes at Milltown last evening provided a major surprise in the elimination of the much-fancied couple, J. Malone and Mrs. M. Rowe, with an intensely exciting finish at the 20th. Almost as unexpected was the extent of the victory of last year's runners-up, T. A. Healy and Miss M. Kelleher, over the Baltray partnership, P. O'Kelly and Miss P. Garvey, who were soundly beaten by 4 and 2.

It was C. V. O'Donnell and Miss Rosie Bermingham who brought about the defeat of Malone and his partner, or, perhaps, I should give credit to the Milltown lady, who holed a long putt on the home green to keep the flag flying. She did even better at the 20th. There Mrs. Rowe's drive was out of bounds, but Malone hit a raking second. O'Donnell's second pulled up on the rise on the left-hand side of the green, and Miss Bermingham had a nasty, curling downhill putt, but she holed it for a great 3 and the match, with the other ball a good distance from the hole in 3.

The attraction for the gallery was the Healy-Kelleher and O'Kelly-Garvey match. In it the honours were carried off by the ladies. Neither Miss Kelleher nor Miss Garvey made a single mistake of any consequence, but the Baltray lady was handicapped severely by the too many loose strokes played by her partner. Her driving for an 18 years old girl was extraordinary, and her play with the irons was a model of how golf shots should be played.

When the Baltray pair won the first two holes in 4's, it looked as if Healy and partner were in for a dressing, but the "fireworks" did not last, and despite two stymies, Healy and Miss Kelleher turned one up, winning the 3rd and 8th with their strokes.

O'Kelly and Miss Garvey never recovered the lead, and when the match finished, the winners, with a third stymie at the 10th, were but 3 over fours—excellent scoring, in which Miss Kelleher, as steady as a rock, played her part right well.

THIRD ROUND

H. B. Linehan (3) and Miss P. Pyper (9), Milltown, beat D. Coyle (7), Milltown, and Mrs. J. E. Kennedy (13), Castle—4 and 3.

J. A. Tierney (8), Milltown, and Miss A. Black (12), Rathfarnham, beat H. A. Floyd (7) and Mrs J. McMurrough (13), Hermitage—2 and 1.

C. V. O'Donnell (5), Portmarnock, and Miss R. Bermingham (16), Milltown, beat J. Malone (1), Dun Laoghaire, and Mrs. M. Rowe (17), Ballina, at 20th.

T. A. Healy (scr.), Royal Dublin, and Miss M. Kelleher (17), Tralee, beat P. O'Kelly (6) and Miss P. Garvey (4), Co. Louth—4 and 2.

L. Howley (2), Royal Dublin, and Mrs. E. D. MacCormack (9), Milltown, beat R. P. O'Neill (7), Castle, and Mrs. O'Neill (15), Milltown—3 and 2.

J. Hanlon (4) and Miss V. Cullen (13), Grange, beat D. J. O'Connor (3), Milltown, and Miss D. McCabe (12), Co. Louth—5 and 4.

P. J. Kavanagh (9), Milltown, and Miss F. Blake (16), Delgany, beat J F. Kearns (8), Royal Dublin, and Miss C. Harte (14), Clontarf—1 up.

J. Sibley (8), Greystones, and Mrs. T. W. Pyper (12), Milltown, beat J. G. Barnewell (6) and Mrs. Levingston (12), Castle—4 and 3.

LORCAN SHERLOCK CUP

For the first time, Old Wesley last evening at the Grange won the Lorcan Sherlock Cup foursomes with an aggregate of 291 for the best four scores. Wanderers and Clontarf tied for second prizes with 300. Included in the Old Wesley team were three old Irish internationals—R. D. Gray, W. P. Hinton and George Hamlet.

The scorers for the winners were:—E. W. Massey and J. S. Pickering, 71½; M. P. Ruddle and W. R. Prescott, 72½; W. P. Hinton and G. Hamlet, 73; E. K. Bailey and J. Bolton, 74.

Other aggregates were:—300, Wanderers and Clontarf; 301½, Blackrock College; 304, U.C.D. (holders); 305, Old Belvedere; 314, Bective Rangers; 315, Lansdowne; 319, Monkstown; 327½, Palmerston.

Best nett, J. C. Harte and S. Mullen (Clontarf), 70; second nett, Dr. R. Davitt and Dr. Kevin O'Flanagan (U.C.D.), 71; best gross, P. A. Love and J. B. Johnston (Wanderers), 76.

D.U. SOCIETY WIN

Dublin University Society beat Dublin University Club 5-3 in the annual Past v. Present Trinity Week golf challenge match at Dollymount yesterday.

Details (Society names first):—

C. W. Robertson (4) lost to K. C. Mullen (2), 7 and 6; J. D. Parsons (7) beat A. Taylor (9), 3 and 1; J G. Greene (5) scratched to D. Robinson (10); H. G. Forde (8) lost to I. Moore (8), 2 up; K. F. Purcell (12) beat J. C. Driscoll (10), 2 and 1; G. K. Donald (12) beat M. Graham (18), 7 and 6; F. W. Kœnigs (18) beat S. B. Sloan (18), 4 and 3; A. W. Warnock (13) beat K. C. Kennedy (16), 4 and 3.

TO RUN AT ASCOT

F. Darling, the Beckhampton trainer, intends running four of his two-year-olds at Ascot to-morrow. They are:—Petrovna (12.10) Neola (1.30), Isle of Capri (2.30), and Clarnico (4.0). Gordon Richards rides them, and his other mounts at the meeting include Young Stratford or Dijon and Oundle Shahpoor, who missed the Coronation Cup, will run for the Twyford Stakes (2.0).

IMPORTANT DIVIDENDS

Kaffirs and De Beers

THE Kaffir dividend season opened yesterday with the declaration by 11 companies in the Central Mining-Rand Mines group. Reductions compared with last December are shown by Crown Mines, Modder East, New Modder and Rose Deep, while the remainder have been maintained. These payments are more or less in accordance with expectations.

Interim dividends are also announced by De Beers, Consolidated Mines and Consolidated Diamond Mines of South-West Africa on Pref. and Equity stocks. These companies are maintaining their rates at 15s. per share on De Beers Def. and 2s. on Consolidated Diamond Ord.

Another mining dividend announced yesterday was a declaration of 1/- per share in respect of 1943-44 by Selection Trust in the Chester Beatty group. This payment compares with 10½d. in the previous year, and no increase had been expected.

Here are the latest Kaffir dividends in tabular form, and also the two previous payments:—

Cable and Wireless

DIVIDENDS for 1943 are announced by companies in the Cable and Wireless group. The statements attracted less attention than is usual owing to the subdued state of markets.

Cable and Wireless, Ltd., which is the operating company of the group, is to pay a final dividend of 2½ p.c., less tax, making 4 p.c. for 1943, the same as for the preceding four years. This dividend largely controls the distribution on Cable and Wireless (Holding) Co., which is to pay a 4 p.c. dividend on its Ord. capital. Similar dividends have been paid every year since 1937.

Investors are directly interested in the Holding concern. The Ord. stock is usually very popular and at present commands a price of 83. The 5½ p.c. Pref. is quoted at 113½.

Marconi's Wireless Telegraph, which is controlled by Cable and Wireless (Holding) Co., is paying a final of 3½ p.c. for last year, making 7 p.c. for the year, as paid each year since 1938.

Increased profits and dividend are announced by Associated British Engineering, Ltd., for 1943. This company is now a holding concern, and has a controlling interest in Brush Electrical Engineering, which is a concern expected to show progress in years to come.

Brush Electrical issued a report for 1943 about a month ago, and increased its Ord. dividend from 8 to 9 p.c. That prepared holders of the Associated British for a favourable report from that company. It is now shown that the net profit of the Associated British for last year was £20,194 (against £18,114). The Ord. dividend, which was raised a year ago from 5 p.c. to 6 p.c., is further advanced now to 7 p.c. There remains £5,497 to go forward (against £5,143 brought in). The £1 units are around 36/-, to yield £3 17/- p.c.

G.S.R. Stocks Go Ahead Munster Banks Lower

MARKETS on the Dublin Stock Exchange opened in quiet fashion yesterday following the statement by the Minister for Supplies regarding the serious fuel position. The drastic cut in the use of electricity will adversely affect every branch of industry, and it is impossible to foretell how long such conditions will last.

Railway stockholders received a slight ray of hope, as it was pointed out that everything possible will be done to keep essential transport services in operation. This caused some recovery in the railway group, but otherwise price movements were irregular.

There was good buying of Great Southern Rails. The Ord. recovered 2½ points to 50, and the Pref. 2 points to 49½. The Guar. rose to 69, and the Deb. held steady at 92½. Gt. Northern Ord. firmed up to 25 and the Pref. to 43½.

Home Government Funds showed little life, but 4½ p.c. Land Bonds advanced to 115½. 3½ p.c. War Loan shaded off to 103½, and Limerick 3½ p.c. dipped to 99. The feature of Banks was the selling of Munster and Leinsters down to 135/6—a fall of 2/- on the day.

Guinness units shed pence at 131/6, but Power Ord. further improved to 16/-. Alliance Gas Ord. were nominally easier around 21/3. Ranks (Ireland) Pref. declined to 27/6 and Cement Deb. to 108½.

May Roberts (Ireland) Ord. relapsed 4/9 to 45/6, but J. G. Mooney Ord. spurted 4/- to 70/-. Other Irish industrials held quietly steady. British industrials were idle.

WALL STREET TRADERS OPTIMISTIC

NEW YORK, Thursday.—The Stock Exchange opened firm, and traders were generally optimistic over the progress of the invasion, as evidenced by the popularity of peace shares, but in most cases accounts were kept liquid pending the outcome in France.

Fractional declines were in the majority, and the market finished easy. The turnover of 862,000 shares comprised 838 stocks, of which 274 advanced, 349 declined, and 215 remained unchanged.—(Reuter.)

MARKETS KEEP FIRM

Although business in the London Stock Markets was reduced yesterday by the inclination to await developments in France, the tone was firm. European Bonds made headway, apart from French Railway issues, which suffered a setback.

Gilt-edged remained steady. Home Rails kept quietly firm, and there was not much interest in the Overseas group.

Although some irregularity was again noticeable in the Industrial Market, buyers predominated at the finish, and a sprinkling of modest gains resulted from the day's business.

The main feature in Oils was a rise of 1/- to 57/- in Attock, the stock being in poor supply.

Denials in Kerry Murder Charge

SAYING he thought there was no harm in it, John Sullivan, Ardkearagh, a witness in the murder charge at Waterville, Co. Kerry, yesterday described some statements in a deposition made by him to Detective-Sergeant Whelan in February, 1943, as inventions.

He was giving evidence in connection with the charge of shooting Michael P. O'Sullivan (49), farmer, Ardkearagh, on January 12th, 1943, against Thomas O'Shea (23), Ardkearagh, and John Brennan (35), Toor, Waterville, farmers.

Mr. McLoughlin, S.C., for the prosecution, cross-examined the witness, who said that his statement in the deposition that he heard the accused man, O'Shea, calling the deceased man a ruffian was not true. Neither was it true for him to have said that O'Shea told him that O'Sullivan said he (O'Shea) was mad.

Asked why he had made these statements and thrown suspicion on O'Shea, the witness said he thought there was no harm in saying them. He alleged that the statements he made were forced from him by the guards and that he was tired of telling them that he knew of no quarrel between the deceased man and O'Shea.

Michael Carey, Lohar, said that he was present at O'Sullivan's wake on the night of January 13th, 1943. There was a discussion as to whether the kitchen clock was correct between the hours of ten and twelve. Witness consulted his watch, and noticed that the kitchen clock was ten minutes slow. Eventually Mrs. Ellen O'Sullivan, widow of the dead man, who had asked him for the correct time, said that it would be all right to alter the clock. Either the accused man, O'Shea, or his wife then altered the clock.

CORK AND LIMERICK TO HAVE PLAYGROUNDS

The number of students taking an interest in social science and public administration was a great thing for the country, and the Civics Institute was playing a useful part in training future legislators and public servants, said the Minister for Justice, Mr Gerald Boland, speaking yesterday at the annual general meeting of the Civics Institute of Ireland, held at the Country Shop, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin.

The problem of juvenile delinquency concerned everyone in the country, and, if tackled properly, it should be possible to deal with it satisfactorily, he continued. The best step was to provide more playgrounds, for if the children were properly handled in the early 'teens there would be more hope for them. The problem of dealing with those between the ages of 14 and 20 was, however, one of the biggest that any Government had to face.

The Lord Mayor, Alderman Martin O'Sullivan T.D., said that, in the main, the juvenile delinquency problem might be assessed to bad social conditions; for vandalism, however, there was no excuse. Undoubtedly a noticeable improvement had taken place in the areas of the playgrounds. He added that this country lagged behind continental countries in the question of social science.

The President, Mr. R. F. Browne, said that playgrounds would be started shortly in Cork and Limerick. The Institute had succeeded in having one new playground opened in Dublin every 18 months.

The report recorded that not more than 4,000 of the 142,000 children under the age of 14 in Dublin were being helped. The Institute now controlled eight playgrounds.

Crushing Burden Of Taxation

THE overwhelming burden of taxation on Irish industry is well illustrated in the chairman's statement to shareholders which accompanies the report of Irish Wire Products, Ltd., for the year ended March 31st last. He shows how the company has made a total contribution to taxation since its inception of no less than £24,672. The net dividends paid to Preference shareholders to date total £12,526, while the Ordinary have received only £3,533 (a total of £16,059)—or less than two-thirds of their contribution to the Revenue.

The results for the past year, however, show a very marked improvement due to the arrival of raw material. Profits (before tax) amounted to £14,415, compared with £3,953 for the previous year and £1,054 for the ten months before that.

The sum of £9,206 is set aside for taxation, while Ordinary and Preference shareholders have received in actual cash less than £3,000.

Ordinary dividends were resumed last February with an interim of 2 per cent. and now a final of 4 per cent. is announced, making 6 per cent. for the year. A similar rate was paid for 1940-41. To contingencies is placed £1,000 (against a withdrawal of £3,000 last time), while £500 is written off deferred revenue expenditure, and the same amount off preliminary expenses. The carry forward is raised from £282 to £572.

The Chairman, in his statement, says they are in a better position in regard to stock than they have been for a considerable time. The company, which was floated in 1935, manufactures all classes of wire products and precision tools. It has a factory on the dock side at Limerick.

Issued capital totals £75,000 of which £40,000 is in £1 Ordinary shares quoted around 16s. 6d. The £1 Preference have a market value of 21s. 6d.

Sound Oil Shares

RECENTLY there has been a steady demand for the Preference Shares of leading oil companies, which, although for the most part showing only moderate yields at current prices, are, at the same time, regarded as good "safety first" holdings in regard to the satisfactory profits earned, and dividends being paid, by the various undertakings on the Ordinary capital. Moreover, latest accounts show the Preference dividends to have been covered with ample margins.

The following table shows the gross yields at current prices on a representative list of Preference Shares:—

	Price.	Gross yield % £	s.	d.
Anglo-Iranian—
8% 1st Pref.	39s.	4	1	0

Ministers in Public Appointments

The General Assembly in Belfast yesterday had before it an overture stating that "in future a minister or professor on active duty shall not accept any paid public employment unless it be of a casual kind or a chaplaincy," adding: "In the event of a breach of this rule, the Presbytery shall proceed against the offenders for contumacy."

After a discussion, it was decided, by 413 votes to 150, to pass from the question.

One of the speakers was Dr. J. A. A. Irwin, Lucan, who said he did not see why they should handcuff themselves. "I never was so proud," he said, "as when I heard that the Rev. Professor Corkey was cast out of his Parliamentary office. I knew then that we had in him, as one of our ministers, a man who could not be bought."

Annual Procession

The annual procession under the auspices of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament, Church of Corpus Christi, Whitehall, was held last night, and units taking part included representatives of the Emergency Defence, A.R.P. and Red Cross Services, the Army, and the men, women, and children of the Parish of Glasnevin.

Benediction was given by the Rev. J. Canon Dwyer, P.P.

Coloured Medical Students in Dock

Yesterday was the fourth day of the trial of three coloured students who are charged with conspiracy to use an instrument to procure an abortion, and with using the instrument.

The students, who are appearing before Judge Davitt in the Dublin Circuit Criminal Court, are all natives of Nigeria. They are—John Sodipo and Olatunde Makanjuola, of Upper Mount street, and Francis A. Shaw, of Lower Mount street.

Cross-examined, John Sodipo said that the girl came to him as to a doctor. He was a doctor, but he was not registered. He (Sodipo) had attended about ten cases of abortion, and was quite satisfied with the correctness of his diagnosis of the dead fœtus.

He had urged her to go to hospital, but she refused, as she was not married. She said, "Can you do it yourself? I can pay for it," or words to that effect. He knew the risks attendant upon the operation, and told her about them, but he did not tell her that she might die if treated outside hospital. He was afraid that she would not go to hospital, so he decided to treat her himself. He did not put to her the fact that he would be running the risk of losing his profession. When she hinted at an illegal operation he was annoyed, but did not send her away because she was a friend. He knew it was a serious offence.

Dr. Raymond Cross, former Assistant Master of the Rotunda Hospital, said that all the instruments found in the room at Mount street, had been demonstrated by him to his students. In obstetrics, he said, the utmost responsibility that a student had was to make examinations.

Olatunde Makanjuola said that he was present when Sodipo operated on the girl. He did not think that the operation was illegal.

Francis A. Shaw stated that he was present at an operation. He asked Sodipo why he did not send the girl to hospital, and Sodipo replied that she had asked for some treatment before going to hospital. He understood that the fœtus was dead, but he did not state that fact in his statement to the police because he was confused on that date. He knew that the girl was in a serious condition, but he thought that Sodipo was capable of treating the girl.

The case for the defence concluded and the further hearing was adjourned until this morning.

CLAIM AGAINST DUBLIN CORPORATION DISMISSED

Holding that there had been no contract such as had been alleged, Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy, in the High Court, Dublin, yesterday, dismissed with costs an action of John Joseph Byrne, Dunmara, Howth road, Clontarf, Inspector, attached to the School Attendance Committee of Dublin Corporation, against the Corporation, seeking declarations, amongst others, that the Corporation had entered into a contract with him to appoint him to the position of rent collector by placing his name on a panel for recruitment of rent collectors, and that he was entitled to be elected before anyone whose name was not on the panel. He also claimed damages.

A stay was granted.

It was submitted on behalf of the Corporation that there was no contract between them and Mr Byrne, and that the offer contained in the notice of September 9th, 1938, inviting applications from employees for inclusion in a panel from which rent collectors would be recruited, did not deprive the Corporation from selecting any person.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1944.

STORMS OF WRATH

The naval, military and aerial operations on the coast of Normandy are so vast in their scope that at least a week must pass before the general public can hope to gain any really clear idea of what is happening. Long threatening, runs the old saying, comes at last; and the whole world has been talking and thinking about the establishment of a second front on the European continent. Almost since the entry of Russia into the war popular nerves had been keyed up to such a high pitch of excitement that when the invasion did come on last Tuesday morning it appeared almost as an anticlimax. After the first few hours of "sensational" bulletins and highly-coloured broadcast descriptions of the first landings in France, public interest seemed to wane, simply because the public appetite for spectacular news has become almost satiated. To us here in Ireland, remote from the crashing noise of the conflict, and sheltered by Providence from the incidence of its actual terrors, the reports from both sides so far present a blurred picture of mighty confusion; but during the next few days the outline of events probably will become more sharply defined, and the ordinary observer will be in a better position to adjust his perspective to the true magnitude of the struggle that has just begun on Normandy's sunny beaches. According to German reports, the number of troops landed already by the British and Americans, some by air, but the great majority from the sea, amounts to about eleven divisions—that is to say, well over 100,000 men. When one realises that the Germans have been waiting for this invasion for at least twelve months, and that they not only had fortified the French coastline, but also had sown the sea approaches thickly with the most modern mines, one begins to appreciate the appalling difficulties with which the attacking forces have had to contend. Not only have these divisions been landed; they also have been, and are being, supplied with food and, above all, with colossal quantities of war material of all kinds, from heavy tanks down to the humblest "jeep." It is fairly safe to say that the operations would have been wholly impossible but for the protection that the British and Americans were able to give to their invading armies in the air and from the sea. Ever since the first men went ashore on Tuesday morning reinforcements have been arriving in a steady stream. The Germans compute that the eleven divisions already established on the beach-heads constitute only about one-tenth of the invasion forces that are at General Montgomery's immediate disposal. They announce that further contingents already are on their way to Normandy from the Bristol Channel, the Irish Sea and certain ports in Western Scotland. All these hazardous movements of troops and material are demanding organisation of the highest order. Hitherto the Allies have been fortunate inasmuch as their operations have been virtually unhampered by German aircraft. On the other hand, they have been unlucky in the weather, which has been exceedingly capricious, living up to the most fickle traditions of the English Channel.

In the House of Commons yesterday the British Prime Minister appealed to members to give strong warnings to their constituents against over-optimism and against "the idea that these things are going to be settled in a rush." Apparently, the first round has been won by the Allies, who seem to have established themselves in considerable strength between the Rivers Orne and Vire, as well as on the Cherbourg peninsula and on the southern side of the estuary of the Seine. The town of Bayeux, some seven miles from the coast, has been captured. Caen also appears to have fallen into Allied hands; but every hour German resistance is stiffening, and it is quite certain that the real clash has yet to come. In all likelihood the Germans will not counter-attack in real force until a point has been reached beyond the range of the Allies' big naval guns. So far their counter-attacks seem to have been sporadic, although British and American commentators admit that, at some places, the fighting has been unusually heavy. Doubtless, Marshal von Rundstedt is holding his hand pending further enlightenment regarding the immediate plans of the Russians, who are reported to have launched a new and powerful offensive along a broad front in the neighbourhood of Jassy. He also cannot yet be certain whether or not the British and Americans intend to invade other portions of the coast of France. The German Radio yesterday said that competent German and Dutch circles were expecting parachute landings in Holland, and, for the next week or so, the defenders everywhere will be on the qui vive. Nobody seems to know exactly how many divisions are at the disposal of the German High Command. Some time ago Mr. Winston Churchill estimated that it was between three and four hundred, a figure which is well below the number of divisions believed to be available in Russia. One of the guiding principles of the German Kriegschule since the days of Frederick the Great has been that a war on two fronts must be avoided at all costs. It was not avoided in 1914, and, now that the Allies have landed in Northern France, it hardly can be avoided to-day. True to their military traditions, the Germans may be expected to make almost superhuman efforts to frustrate General Montgomery's plans in Normandy. The British and Americans, with almost limitless resources at their backs, will make equally strong efforts to bring those plans to a victorious issue. All that can be said with any degree of certainty at this stage is that casualties on both sides will be tragically high. Already heavy losses are reported on both sides, and the campaign hardly can be said to have started yet in earnest. In the meantime, the Allied forces in Italy are thrusting ahead to the north of Rome. The strategic purpose of General Alexander's offensive is not very clear. No doubt, as time goes on, it will be found to fit into the general pattern of Allied strategy, which, as we write, is obscured by the chaotic conditions that are inseparable from the preliminary skirmishes of a titanic enterprise.

India's Problem

Last year over half-a-million people, according to official figures, lost their lives as a result of famine in the Indian Province of Bengal. Not all the deaths were due to starvation directly; many were due to epidemic diseases, which took an immediate and heavy toll of a population whose resistance had been weakened by lack of nourishment. The causes of the famine were varied. No proper arrangements had been made to compensate for the loss of rice supplies from Burma after the Japanese occupation; food was plentiful in other States, such as the Punjab, but local farmers and dealers hoarded their grain in order to extort "sky-high" prices; much difficulty was experienced in securing transport for food supplies amassed by the Government. Officials have given an assurance that there will be no recurrence of the disaster this year. Nevertheless, much attention still is directed upon the food problems of India; for it is obvious that the famine was not an isolated incident, but rather an exaggerated symptom of an ever-present state. The population of India is about four hundred millions. At least half of that population suffers permanently from malnutrition, and a considerable part is always on the verge of starvation, and can be tipped over by a very slight economic pressure. The result, naturally, is that the general physique of the Indian is poor, and resistance to disease is weak. Tuberculosis is widespread; plague, cholera, small-pox and other diseases take a huge toll; and malaria annually afflicts about two hundred million people. As a result of all these factors, the expectation of life at birth is only 26 years, as against something over 60 in these islands. Nevertheless—and this is the most awe-inspiring fact—in spite of starvation and disease from generation to generation, the population of India is increasing at the rate of six million every year. Naturally, the increase in population depresses still further the standard of living. The country produces, at present, about half the amount of food that would keep its people properly nourished. Will it ever be possible to increase production enough to catch up with the population? Lack of education and lack of resources militate against such an increase; disease, impairing the efficiency of the Indian worker, fights against it. Reason argues that if the standard of living goes up population will soar still higher, and the problem will have to be faced from the beginning again. The prospect, indeed, is grim. Industrialisation is the key offered by some theorists; a huge increase in agricultural production, with the aid of modern methods, is a more obvious necessity. The fullest political independence will be of little use to India unless her social and economic problems can be solved.

THE Marchioness of Headfort has arrived in Dublin from Headfort, Kells, Co. Meath.

The Hon. Mrs. Wynne, who has been staying in Co. Kildare, has returned to the Shelbourne Hotel.

Mrs. Geoffrey Palmer and her children have arrived in Dublin from Galway.

Wearing a medieval gown of cream and gold brocade, crowned with a veil of Carrickmacross lace, and carrying a trailing bouquet of gold-tipped cream roses, Miss Joan Murray, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Murray, Killester House, was married at University Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, on Wednesday morning, 7th June, to Dr. MacDarra Freyne, A.M.S., son of Mr. and Mrs. Freyne, of Edenderry. The bride was attended by four bridesmaids, Miss Carmel Murray and Miss Helen Murray (sisters of the bride), and Miss Peggy Dalton and Miss Enda Gaffney, friends of the bride. They wore gowns of shaded chiffon in sweet-pea pink and mauve colouring, designed on lines reminiscent of medieval Greece. On their heads they wore Juliet caps of Carrickmacross lace, tinted and designed to match the bride's veil, and they carried trailing bouquets of sweet pea which blended with the shading of their gowns. Reception was afterwards held at the Gresham Hotel, and later at Killester House.

Attractive Striped Rayon Sports Shirts, with short sleeves, two breast pockets and adaptable collar, are being shown at Switzers. Silver Grey and Beige only. The prices range—according to size—from 28/4 (5 coupons).

"THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN"

UNIVERSITY CHORAL SOCIETY CONCERT

"THE Pied Piper of Hamelin," by Hubert Parry, was the principal feature of last night's concert by the University of Dublin Choral Society, given to a large audience in the Examination Hall of Trinity College.

In the unavoidable absence, through indisposition, of the Society's conductor, Mr. Turner Huggard, the guest conductor of the night was Mr. Joseph Groocock. In all respects he handled his task splendidly, showing a thorough understanding of the work and bringing out the humour and pathos of Browning's poem, which Parry has so cleverly woven into his music, whether in the solo or choral parts. The work was carried forward at a grand pace, the words being clean in delivery and the phrases well turned, with the meaning well pointed. There was vividly descriptive singing, notably in the assembling and drowning of the rats, and, by contrast, the leading away of the children of the town. Reginald Hall and Richard Midgley, the soloists, performed their tasks well.

The choir later contributed a number of part songs, most impressive of which were Vaughan Williams's setting of "Linden Lea," and Gustav Holst's arrangement for mixed voices of the old Hampshire folk song, "Swansea Town."

In addition to giving its support in the Parry work, the orchestra, under the impelling lead of Miss Terry O'Connor, played a suite of six pieces from lesser-known piano works of J. S. Bach, arranged for orchestra by Charles Woodhouse. Miss Ethel Graham was a capable accompanist.

W. J. DOAK, B.A.

AN APPRECIATION.

It is not fitting that the passing of a man like W. J. Doak, who did noble work for the young in Dublin, should be passed over without notice. Some sixty years ago, when he was appointed Principal of St. Paul's Boys' School, it was small and struggling, but very soon, through the influence of his character and teaching ability, it become one of the best of the primary schools in Dublin, and new and extensive buildings had to be erected.

He was a great teacher, with an amazing gift of gaining the confidence and love of the boys. He was not merely a teacher, but a great educationalist. As he said himself, his aim in life was not merely to impart knowledge, but to make characters. In this he certainly succeeded. He was one of that noble body of men to whom this country, and the Church of Ireland in particular, owes a great debt of gratitude.

When he retired some years ago from active work, he took up the post of hon. secretary to the Linen Hall Public Utility Society, and devoted to it the same gifts of loyalty, devotion and zeal which had made him respected by all who knew him.

As one who knew him well for the last thirty years, I am glad to pay a tribute to his honoured memory, and I know I may voice the feelings of many who will remember him with respect and affection.

Cruiskeen Lawn

By Myles na gCopaleen

TO-DAY'S notes are intended for my Gaelic students only. In the Silva Gadelica version of Ack-ack, laugh, gnash an oar, wreck—I beg your pardon—Agallamh na Senórach—occurs the story to which I have the honour to refer. You are invited to advert not merely to its qualities of literary elegance, drama, delicacy of sentiment—these are merely parenthetical—but also to its effortless sliding-folding adumbration of a degree of civilisation the formula for which has been, alas, forever blindly swallowed by agonised oblivion. The story opens—if so feeble a verb may be applied — when the fashionable Irish Palaeontologist, Major MacRonan, house-party guest of a well-to-do local squire, the O'King (of Ulster), O.B.E., returns home with his host after a successful if unconventional day's 'sport.' The Major notes that cups and medals for golf, rugger, billiards, etc., are being distributed by a fine, and essentially blonde, structure Your wife? he enquires. Nao, replies Honble The O'King, one of my people. Orphan, actually. Funny thing . . . (lowers voice) . . . she . . . recites. She knows two lines of a quatrain, MacRonan, and would correspond with person able to supply two more . . . The Major raised one eyebrow and . Highly dramatic, I mean, the old soldier finishes the unsimple metric quite unexpectedly and then . . . takes monocle from eye and blows nose rather noisily. This is the story which he recalls. There were at one time a total of four persons in Ireland afflicted with . . . . generosity. Two could afford the treatment necessary, the old warlords von Mackuehl and his son. Oeschen; two could not, the Messrs. Dobb McThrewn and Veale Dobbs, being father and son, and they were in the unfortunate position that if they were given all the riches of Ireland and Scotland(!) they would feel constrained to redistribute them as and when requested. Mackuehl and his Chancellor, Baron Cormack MacArthur, heard of these two and found their plight worthy of sympathy, so much so that when the two diseased gentlemen visited a meeting of the Party, large sums were without question voted towards defraying their rather incalculable keep. Thus not ungenerously subsidised, Mr. McThrewn, the father, lasted 17 years, during which ní hétir áirem andérnsat do mhaith. His end was hastened by a visit from an ungentle family recently returned from America—"Toothy" deDanno and his boys. His step-son, however, Mr. Veale Dobbs, lived for seventy years after this event and did not undistribute during that time uncountable quantities of public money. (Government uncountants were too well-bred to count money then.) But that verse, young lady . . . enquires the Major, how did you know it? I am Una Veale Dobbs . . . ! Indeed! O'King, old person, you couldn't have a better woman handing out those mugs! I thoroughly agree, said the old squire . . . Oh, Angus! Yes, father, said a pale young man. I think you should marry Miss Dobbs, Angus; she's a frightfully generous girl. It is all rather tortuous but the story concludes with the observation that the lady remained Angus' wife during the period that he was alive and that the party remained drinking and amusing themselves for three days after that. Read the thing yourself; it's thoroughly . . . un-Irish.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

THE flats at Quarry Hill, in Leeds, are the only working-class flats in Britain provided with lifts throughout, and a number of local bodies who are preparing post-war housing construction schemes have sent their experts to Leeds to study the methods at Quarry Hill. These flats, which are from five to eight storeys, contain 938 homes, served by 88 lifts — one to each staircase unit. The lifts, installed at a cost of £25 to £36 a flat, accommodate two people and carry up to 4cwt. of goods. When their installation was first proposed it was feared that they would be widely abused and would be gravely dangerous to children; but they have been in operation for five years without causing mishap or injury. The buttons which call the lifts make it difficult for children to operate them, and, in fact, they are now accepted as such a normal feature of the flats that the children have ceased to take a mischievous interest in them.

Control of Carrots

An elaborate order reintroducing the general scheme of early carrot marketing is announced to-day by the Ministry of Food. Standard grade carrots only may be marketed. They must be "reasonably free from soil or other extraneous matter and from disease cracks and fangs, damage by insects, slugs, frost or other cause." Where bunches of carrots are sold, a bunch may not exceed 3lb. and the foliage must not exceed 12 inches in length when sold in June and 9 inches when sold in subsequent months. All retail sales must be by weight, and the maximum price is on a decreasing scale, commencing at 6d. a lb. until July 2nd, reducing to 2½d. a lb. during the August 14th to September 10th period. Maximum price control this season has been extended for the first time to sales by growers and by wholesale in Northern Ireland.

Butler as Guest

Mr. Albert Thomas, butler to the Principal of Brasenose College, Oxford, will be the chief guest at Foyle's literary luncheon next week, because of the success of his very charming book on domestic service, "Wait and See," published last month. 6,500 copies already have been sold. Mr. Thomas wrote the book as part of his crusade to improve the conditions of domestic workers. He devotes two amusing chapters to his experiences as steward at a Dublin club during the "troubles," and as butler at Dunboy Castle, Castletownbere, Co. Cork, later burned down. He attributes his remarkable advocacy to methods learned in Ireland. "To get at anyone, if you can make them laugh and whisper to them is far better than getting them in a temper and shouting at them," he told me today. This very modest man is so happy at Oxford that he is sorry to come to London, even for a few days.

Art Collections Fund

The National Art Collection's Fund has brought a memorable year of acquisitions to a close by purchasing for the nation Constable's famous landscape, "The Vale of Dedham," thus saving it, perhaps, from export to America. The price being paid is £5,000. The other most notable purchase of the year has been the Psalter and Hours of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, who died in 1373, five volumes discovered in the library of the Earl of Lonsdale, and of the purchase price of which—£5,000—the Fund has given £2,000. Illuminated manuscripts, executed, as they often were for wealthy, but illiterate, owners, tend to be of little textual consequence, and these are no exception. But from the standpoint of artistic interest and merit, the MSS. do much to bridge the gap, supposedly due to the Black Death of 1348-9, between the Luttrell Psalter (Circa, 1340) and the schools based on Continental models which appeared at the end of the fourteenth century. One of the few landmarks in the later history of English illumination, they are a riot of fresh, rich colour, usually set off against a background of burnished and punctured gold.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Count the Units

"UNITS?" said a cross-section of the community, wearing a tailor-made suit and a neat flowered hat, "now, what exactly is a unit?" I was only trying to find out how she stood in regard to electricity rationing.

It should be known that it was difficult yesterday to find anybody with a clear idea at all. Most people said: "I don't know how we stand. I only know we're on the right side." Nobody could answer the question: "How long can you afford to keep the overhead lamp and the standing lamp in your charming sitting-room lighting of a night?"

The ordinary house, on an average, seems to have a ration of about six units per month, although this may be on the low side. That is—one and a half units per week.

The ordinary 60 watt lamp consumes one unit in ten hours. The answer seems to be that most people will have between fifteen and twenty hours light per week, using only one 60 watt bulb, or a little more than two hours a night.

This will come very hard on card players, unless they start after breakfast.

Count the Cost

There seems to be no doubt that the household previously blessed with young children is now the hardest hit Competent observers have advised this department that young children need enormous amounts of hot water. And Mr. Lemass makes no provision for water heating at all. A three-pint electric kettle can be boiled five or six times for one unit. But this unit comes off the cooking supply, and it seems that fifteen pints of boiling water are nothing to growing children. They lap it up.

Here are further statistics. The radio consumes one unit in about ten to fifteen hours. A vacuum cleaner is comparatively harmless—six to eight hours' beating, sweeping and cleaning for the loss of one unit. An electric iron is dangerous. The 500-watt model burns a unit in two hours—more trouble for the young mother. The outlawed electric stove does the same amount of damage.

Mud Island

To-day is St. Columba's Day. To-day the hundred and fifty-seven years old St. Columba's National Schools, at the North Strand, will be officially reopened by the Minister for Education, Mr. Derrig, accompanied by Mr. de Valera. The Most Rev. A. W. Barton, Archbishop of Dublin, will preside.

The schools were founded as a result of repercussions of the Sunday School Movement. Before Newcomen Bridge was built this part of the city was commonly known as "Mud Island"—a poverty-stricken area with an evil reputation. Courage and determination were needed to found a school in such a neighbourhood. But charitable people came to the rescue—as witness a letter which appeared in The Dublin Chronicle on Christmas Eve, 1787.

The Valuable Medium

The letter reads: "It has afforded my acquaintances in the neighbourhood of Ballybough Bridge much pleasure in observing near a hundred poor children of every persuasion instructed every day of the week in spelling, reading, etc., in the Sunday School on the North Strand; the demeanour of those children bespeaks the civilisation of their manners, and I beg leave to suggest a plan of further benevolence, through the medium of your valuable paper, for these pitiable objects, who are half-naked and shivering in this inclement season. To effectuate this humane purpose, perhaps some worthy ladies may be inclined to make a collection at their respective card tables, and happily convert amusement into the blissful luxury of doing good to their indigent fellow-creatures."

It is interesting to note, in passing, that "the medium of your valuable paper" existed a hundred and fifty-seven years ago; and that, even then, the ladies were busy with the cards.

In 1838 the schools were moved to their present site. The four limestone walls of this original building still stand. But now big, airy windows have been built in place of the former stuffy, diamond leaded panes. A new class-room has been added at the back.

The name of William Ewart Gladstone figured among the names of the subscribers to the 1838 building fund.

Anecdote

As I was going down O'Connell street I saw a crowd. Crowds are part of my profession.

I shoved into the crowd. I could not see what was happening in its centre. I pushed harder, and broke through.

A small boy was the centre of this crowd, a pale, trembling and badly frightened small boy. A moment before he had been selling evening papers. Now they had left him only with the back page of his last copy, and they even wanted that.

It was the afternoon of the invasion. Somebody had sent the boy on a man's errand.

That Clarks design and make—
Alas, we cannot offer them
As fast as you can take.
So if this sandal shoe in suede
Elude your ready feet,
Remember other styles we've made
Are quite as trim and neat.

CLARE COUNTY COUNCIL.
(Public Health and Public Assistance Department.)

DISPENSARY MEDICAL OFFICER REQUIRED
NEWMARKET DISPENSARY DISTRICT.

The Clare County Manager invites applications from persons who are legally qualified for promotion to the position of Medical Officer and Medical Officer of Health of the Newmarket Dispensary District, in accordance with the terms of Section 5 (1) of the Local Authorities (Officers and Employees) Act, 1926, at a scale salary of £250-£10-£325 a year, together with the usual registration and vaccination fees and £40 a year as Medical Officer of Health. The person appointed must discharge without additional remuneration:—

(a) Immunisation duties (other than vaccination against smallpox).
(b) Domiciliary treatment of cases of tuberculosis assigned to him by the County Medical Officer of Health.
(c) Duties which may be necessary in connection with the making of housing surveys under the Labourers' Acts and Orders.
(d) Treatment of minor ailments in children, referred to him under an approved School Medical Service Scheme by the County Medical Service Scheme, by the County Medical Officer of Health.

Each applicant for the position must state clearly the nature of the duties of his (or her) present office, or, if a pensioned Officer, the nature of the duties of the Office in respect of which he or she is in receipt of an annual allowance, specifying the Local Authority or Local Authorities from which the allowance is received, and the amount thereof. Particulars should be furnished also of the length of service in present office, and in the case of an applicant in receipt of an allowance, length of service in his or her former office.

The latest date for receiving applications for the above position is the 21st June, 1944, and all applications received up to that date will be forwarded to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health for sanction under Section 5 (1) of the Local Authorities (Officers and Employees) Act, 1926, and the County Manager will, on the 3rd day of July, 1944, proceed to fill the vacancy in question from the list of applicants whose applications have been received up to the date specified.

Sealed applications endorsed "Medical Officer, Kilrush," accompanied by Birth Certificate, will be received (through ordinary post) not later than 10 a.m. on the 21st June, 1944.

INDIGESTION CAUSED SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Now He Sleeps Soundly—Thanks to Rennies

For years he suffered from sleeplessness due to indigestion. Then he found a simple way to make certain of a good night's rest. Fellow-sufferers will want to know his method. This is what he says:—

"In the course of a long life I have endured much distress from indigestion and insomnia. For relief I have tried many methods, many remedies, but without avail. Now, at length, I know what it is to get to sleep quickly and soundly. The reason? Rennies! Shortly before going to bed I take three or four. I have no influence in connection with the bestowal of honours, but if I had, your Chemists would figure in the list of awards."—H. H.

Rennies work in three ways. They contain antacids which neutralise acidity, absorbents which reduce stomach gas, and digestive ferments which actively aid digestion. Rennies dissolve in the mouth. They become active at once, because they reach the stomach full strength—not weakened with water.

All chemists sell Rennies: 7d. and 2/- pkt.

Says Mr. Marrowfat

Helping every day in the preparation of tasty and nourishing meals for young and old alike, Batchelor's Peas are true family friends.

Batchelor's PEAS

Baby needs nourishing as well as feeding, and only breast milk—or failing this, FRESH cow's milk can give this full nourishment.

To make fresh cow's milk completely digestible by even the weakest of babies, Sister Lauras evolved a cereal product which modifies fresh cow's milk and makes it digestible. It is not a dried milk.

Doctors and Nurses have tested and endorsed this for over 30 years.

PAIN WAS WEARING HER OUT

She Could Not Straighten Her Back

In 3 Weeks Kruschen Made a Wonderful Difference

For six weeks this woman endured the pains of backache. It was wearing her out. Then she began to take Kruschen, and in three weeks, what a difference there was! But let her tell the story herself:—

"About six weeks ago I started having awful pains in my back. Sometimes I could not straighten myself, and I got depressed and worn out. I could scarcely carry on with my household duties, and everything was getting neglected. It was then I saw a Kruschen advertisement, and I decided to give Kruschen Salts a trial. I started with a small teaspoonful in hot water every morning, and in three weeks, my word, what a difference! The pains gradually disappeared. To-day, at 46, I feel 10 years younger—it was my lucky day when I first started to use Kruschen."—(Mrs.) H.M.

Pains in the back are usually due to poisons in the blood—poisonous waste products which tired kidneys are failing to filter from the system. The mineral salts in Kruschen coax your kidneys back to healthy, normal action, so that not a particle of poisonous waste matter remains unexpelled. Your inside is thus kept clean and serene. You experience joyous relief from those old dragging kidney pains.

Kruschen Salts is sold by all Chemists, price 1/9 per bottle.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour. The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxative helps a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.

Thank goodness we always bought 'Viyella' it lasts and lasts and lasts

The value of 'Viyella' was never more appreciated than it is to-day. Its smooth, soft, hard-wearing texture makes it the best in the world for men's, women's and children's day and night wear. Take care of your 'Viyella'—it's hard to get in these days of restricted supply.

End INDIGESTION Now!

Price 1/3 and 2/3.

Eat what you like when you like. Cal-Ma-Vite aids digestion at the same time as it fights the cause of indigestion. If you suffer from heartburn, flatulence or other stomach trouble Cal-Ma-Vite will bring safe and instant relief. Ask your Chemist for it to-day.
